

GQ Joins Littler Global

GQ has very recently joined Littler Global, an integrated association of law firms across the world offering a single source solution to international businesses. Littler Global is the world's largest global employment and labour law practice, with more than 1,200 lawyers in over 75 offices worldwide.

Being part of Littler Global will provide some key benefits that will enable us to enhance the services we can provide, including:

- Being able to seamlessly provide high quality advice and support across a wide range of international markets.
- Benefiting from cutting edge technology, research and knowledge management resources, such as artificial intelligence (AI) and e-disclosure platforms, which we believe will be of significant benefit to our clients.

If you would like any more information about GQ, our membership of Littler Global, or the benefits this will offer, then please do get in touch. You can also find out more about Littler Global at <https://www.littler.com/littler-global>.