

GQ|Littler to lead panel at IFLR European In-House Counsel Summit on 24 January

Lawyers from GQ and Littler will be hosting a panel discussion at the sixth annual IFLR European In-House Counsel Summit in London on 24 January 2018, organised by the International Financial Law Review.

This event brings together over 100 general counsel, heads of legal, corporate counsel and leading private practice lawyers for a day of engaging discussions and debate and the organisers say that "2018 will prove to be critical in respect to the progression of capital markets due to an unpredictable and changing regulatory landscape. This event will explore how to remain strategic amid a slowdown in European M&A deals and the looming realisation of Brexit now on the horizon."

Registration is free for In-house counsel so please get in touch with us if you would like to attend or register directly here.